Boxes and Exams

After weeks of packing and sorting, the sea container was loaded last week, with lots of help from friends here! The shipping industry worldwide has been affected by current events, and that has trickled down to us; the date for loading our container changed four times before it finally arrived at our door. The container should leave the Durban port sometime this week and head for Germany.

Please praise the Lord with us- everything fit in the container, we had lots of helpers, and no one got hurt in the process of loading!

Please pray for us, especially Daniel, for health and strength in these last days of wrapping up life here and teaching. He is battling with his health, with the busy schedule, and we need to be healthy to fly to Berlin, Lord willing, on Dec. 8th.

Daniel has been teaching the hermeneutics class three times a week in the midst of boxes and chaos (this picture was taken before the container was loaded). The students had their second exam last week. Please pray for the students as they learn new ways of studying the Bible, which often means identifying old (faulty) ways as well. He has been teaching them his dad's Chapter Summary Analysis Bible study method, and other hermeneutical principles, which has been a blessing to many people all over the world.

Please pray for us as we say goodbyes, and have last opportunities to share the Gospel with neighbors and friends. One of our neighbors, Nadira, asked for prayer as she is battling esophageal cancer. Please pray that she finds her trust and peace and comfort in the Lord

Jesus. Please also pray for M and A, K and his wife, and R and R and D.

Thanks so much for your love and prayers and interest!

Together in Christ,
Dan and Deb Willoughby
